Cassandra Kaye Hobson

Cassandra Kaye Hobson is a native Memphian, Christian Stage Playwright, and founder of Vision Made Plain Productions. She acknowledged the gift of playwriting in June of 2014 and debuted her first play in January 2015 at The Evergreen Theater. She realized then that God wanted to use her on stage to minister through drama and she began writing effortlessly under the influence of the Holy Spirit. She has produced and performed every year since then.

Cassandra earned her Bachelor of Science degree in Human Services from Lancaster Bible College and works for Crestwyn Behavioral Health. She is the mother of Barry, age 20 and Rayven, age 27. She is also the proud grandmother of Niyah Leigh, age 3 who she affectionately calls "Suga Mama"!

Cassandra believes that God allowed every test and trial in her life to happen so that there would be no question that he chose her for this mission. He let her know that her misery has become her ministry and for that she is eternally grateful. Her endeavor is that souls are saved, healed, delivered, and set free through her productions and writings.

In addition, Cassandra believes her life has been extended to serve in the community as God has given her a servant's heart. She is always willing to help those in need. She is compassionate and devoted to assist in any way she can to all people.
